Women and Revolution- on line

Fall, 2013

7 Weeks

Dr. Elise G. Young

History Department

How does a revolution get started?

What are women and men calling for in Egypt, Bahrain, the U.S. and elsewhere?

Here's some of what you will learn in this course:

The role of young people in creating new social, political, economic systems around the world.

The meaning of feminist Ijtihad.

Environmental justice and its connection to feminism.

The role of social media in creating global networks across religions, and nationalist divides.

Connections between women, race, class and war.

This course fulfills your 300 level requirement. We will use video, text, Facebook , on-line interviews and more.

This course is connected to The Global Women's History Project.

As part of this class you can become a GWHP Intern and use the skills you learn in this class to become an educator, organizer, and global expert!
