The “25% discount rates” listed above apply only to students residing in overcapacity and voluntary triple rooms. If you have been offered a “move out” of such a space and chose to stay in it, you are no longer eligible for a discount. Also, once an overcapacity room returns to its regular occupancy level, your housing bill will be adjusted to reflect the regular room charge. If you are unsure about your room designation, please see your Residence Director; you may also contact Residential Life about questions related to your room charges.

ROOM CHANGES: If you changed rooms or received a housing assignment since the summer billing cycle, or if you have a room change at any point during the coming academic year, please review the above rates to determine if you will have adjustments in your financial obligations for this semester. Also, it is critical for you to inform people who are helping to finance your college education about the impact of housing changes on your account. Please feel free to share this memo.

MEAL PLAN: If you have moved from a traditional residence hall to the Apartment Complex, Lansdowne Place or New Hall, you are no longer required to have a meal plan. If you would like to drop or change your meal plan, please contact Student Accounts.

Any charges or credits related to changes in housing or meal plan status will be included on your mid-semester bill. You may also inquire about the status of your account at the Student Accounts Office at ‘333’, Horace Mann Center (x8538 or x8532).

Please contact our office with any questions. Best wishes for a productive semester!
