Post WAC Workshop Follow-Up Meetings:
Held October 4th, 5th, and 6th 10 of the 18 participants attended. A “Plan of Attack” was coordinated focusing on what the most useful part of the workshop was and how to present back to departments. Faculty members walked away with “more concrete strategies”.

Honors Projects Workshop:
Vanessa Diana-Holford and Glen Brewster will be holding 2-one hour sessions with faculty advisors and students who are completing honors projects. Workshop will focus on the use of textual mentors.

WAC Workshop Survey Results:
12 of 18 faculty members responded. Everything was considered useful. Large group expressed an interest in the topic of peer review.

Next WAC Workshop:
- Committee agreed to have a“teaser” roundtable on Peer Review in the Faculty Center in November to help recruit for our larger 3-day workshop over January break.
- Committee agreed to run a three day workshop with Day 1: Fundamentals, Day 2: Peer Review, and Day 3: Writing in the Sciences. There will be a two-step recruitment process that uses outreach to faculty through email as well as through department chairs in meetings. Adjuncts will be allowed to attend. Options for compensation were discussed with tentative ideas of expectations for compensations and amounts. Dates to be discussed with Neal are January 11, 12, and 13.

Turning Your Dissertation into a Book:
D. Price and C. Kudlac will be doing a workshop on how to turn your dissertation into book/articles.

Action Items:
- C. Savini will complete the following:
  o Creating a channel on the portal with link to website/handouts
  o Check with Neal Learner on dates for workshop
