Certification of Finances

It is required by U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) that all F-1 and J-1 visa status applicants provide verification of finances in the corresponding amount based on the services needed (or greater), through any combination of personal, family, or sponsored funding. This means applicants must demonstrate a sufficient amount to cover tuition, living expenses (room and board), insurance, and personal expenses for one year of academic study. Please check the Cost of Attendance page to calculate the costs based on your circumstances.

To demonstrate access to sufficient financial resources to study and live while in the United States, students can mention one or all of the following under the Sources of Funds section below:

- 1. Personal or family savings: This includes a bank account in the student's name or family members, including friends supporting the student's education.
- 2. Sponsors: This includes money available from organizations (governmental or non-governmental) providing funds or scholarships to the student. The student or the organization will need to provide an award letter from a foundation, agency, or government stating the amount of financial support to the student.
- 3. Loan organizations: This includes local governments or banks that offer student loans (please check with your local entities). This also includes organizations in the U.S. that provide private student loans to international students with the support of a U.S. citizen or permanent resident willing to co-sign the loan with the applicant.

SOURCES OF FUNDS

Enter the expected amount of annual support from the sources listed below in U.S. dollars (USD). This could include personal savings, funds from family members, friends, sponsors, and/or organizations, including loan organizations.
