Field Practicum:

As a part-time student, you will be in a field placement during your second year in the program.

To begin to learn about the field placement process, you can go to the MSW Accepted Students webpage: <https://westfield.ma.edu/academics/degrees/social-work-msw/msw-accepted-students> and scroll down to the section: Field Orientation and Application, to familiarize yourself with the field process.

You are welcome to contact the Social Work Field Education Director, Tyrese Tillman via email at tillman@westfield.ma.edu with any questions regarding the Field Application process.

Program Prerequisites:

Some of you may need to complete either a Human Biology requirement and/or an American National Government requirement. If that is the case for you, there will be a note in this packet to that effect. The Human Biology requirement and the American Government requirement need to be completed by 9/8/23. You can complete these requirements at any college or university that offers these courses.

If you are interested, WSU also offers options to complete these requirements in house. Our non-credit, fully online Human Biology for Social Workers course is offered in the summer and meets the human biology requirement. A description of this course has been included at the end of this handbook. Please email Brandon Fredette at bfredette@westfield.ma.edu if you would like to register for this course.

We also offer a free, self-guided, open-book “exam” that will allow you to meet our American National Government requirement. You should be able to complete this exam on your own time in a matter of hours and you will have until 9/8/23 to complete it. The questions to the exam are enclosed in this handbook. Again, you are not required to complete these requirements at WSU, but you do need to complete them by the due dates. If you believe you have completed these requirements already and should not be required to complete them again, please contact the MSW Program Director, Maria del Mar Farina (mfarinadeparada@westfield.ma.edu), to discuss this.

Transfer Credits:

If you have taken graduate social work courses from a CSWE accredited MSW program, you may be able to transfer up to 6 graduate credits to the WSU MSW program. To do this, we need an official transcript and a copy of the course syllabus. Once you have the syllabus, please make an appointment with Dr. Farina so we can determine whether your prior courses may be transferred for WSU MSW graduate credit.

Summer 2023
Human Biology for Social Workers

Social workers, to effectively assess client systems, need to have background knowledge in sociology, psychology, political science, economics and human biology. This course will provide social work students with basic knowledge about human biology that will aid them in assessing client systems and creating intervention plans that have a greater potential to create desired outcomes. The course will explore the basics of anatomy, biological development, and heredity. Further, the course will look at issues around health, illness, disability, mental illness, the impact of substance use, sexuality, and aging. Finally, we will examine issues around Public Health.

Intended Audience

This course is intended for students entering an MSW program that requires all students have completed a Human Biology class before starting the graduate program. The course also is intended for BSW students who have complete their core science requirements but are still required to complete a Human Biology class as part of their Social Work Program. Since the requirements of each MSW and BSW program vary, we strongly recommend that the student check that this course will meet the requirements of their program before completing the course. A copy of the syllabus is available to document the course content to MSW and BSW programs.

Credit

This is a noncredit pass/fail course.

Instruction Method/Expectations

The course is offered as an on-line course that is divided into six topical modules and takes six weeks to complete. For each module students will read assigned readings, listen to assigned podcasts, complete a short written assignment, a short quiz, and/or participate in an on-line asynchronous discussion board. Students need a computer or tablet with an internet connection. Students need a web-browser (e.g. Explorer, Safari, etc.) and a word processing program (MS Word, Apple Pages, Text Edit, etc.). Students need basic web-browser skills and word processing skills. Students will be required to listen to and possibly watch podcasts and videos. Finally students need a functional email address that is provided to the instructor.

This class is scheduled to start May 22, 2023 and end on June 30, 2023.

If you have any questions about the course, please contact Westfield State University's Community Education Coordinator, Brandon Fredette at (413) 572-8033 or via email bfredette@westfield.ma.edu.
