Finally, ending his report with a reminder about the bonding trip scheduled for tomorrow.

They then reviewed three items for referral to the Academic Policies Committee (APC), including the much-anticipated common hour policy, which passed with an 8-1-1 vote. Lastly, the committee reviewed 17 items for approval from UCC, and after correcting some typos in the agenda, all items were unanimously approved.

Student Trustee Report: Austin Morgan, speaking on behalf of Student Trustee Daniel Currier, shared that Dan could not attend the meeting as he was participating in the Student Advisory Council but wanted to express that he misses being with everyone. Austin provided an update on the special Board meeting held last Friday, where the Board reviewed and approved Dr. Thompson's comprehensive evaluation for the 2023-2024 academic year. Interviews with faculty, staff, librarians, students, and community members highlighted Dr. Thompson's visibility, listening skills, and innovative strategies, with one standout comment noting her transition from "trauma surgery" to her true role as President. In recognition of her efforts, the Board unanimously recommended that the Department of Higher Education grant her the highest possible salary and benefit increases. The next Board of Trustees meeting is scheduled for Monday, December 2nd, from 3:00 to 4:30 p.m. via Zoom, focusing on financial affairs, including the University's budget. Proceedings can be viewed live at westfield.ma.edu/live. Austin closed humorously by suggesting any questions be directed to Dan directly.

Student Advisory Council: Austin Morgan, speaking again on behalf of Daniel Currier, humorously remarked on Dan's busy schedule, comparing him to a "professional meeting attendee" like Dr. Hearn, as he attended yet another meeting. Dan is currently participating in the Student Advisory Council to the Board of Higher Education, which includes all student trustees and SGA presidents across the Massachusetts public higher education system. The council is undergoing media training, hearing reports from advisors to the Board of Higher Education and conducting elections for key positions. Austin also updated that Dan is continuing to work with Joseph on planning the legislative breakfast, aimed at convincing lawmakers to address deferred maintenance on campus, with more details to come. Austin encouraged anyone with questions to reach out directly to Dan.

Planning also began for an end-of-year celebration for all recognized clubs, including awards for exceptional achievements, with the top-performing club receiving a plaque or small trophy. To enhance communication and support, the committee proposed creating a Teams chat for all RSOs and linking a survey in emails to gather direct feedback on how the committee can better assist clubs.

- Sarah Harrington congratulated Troyelle on her first report!

Student Affairs Committee: Justin Wald reported that the Student Affairs Committee met last Friday to brainstorm ideas for the area outside the fitness center. He emphasized the need for more student suggestions, as without broader input, a small group of students, faculty, and staff will make the final decisions, limiting the opportunity to complain later if outcomes are unsatisfactory. Justin encouraged everyone to share their ideas to help shape the project.

Vice President of Academic Life Report: Sarah Harrington reported that on November 14th she met with Provost Dr. Salka to discuss digitizing registrar forms, which is now in progress and expected to be completed by winter break or spring. They talked about the Student Affairs Committee's idea of a speaker series during the common hour, with each academic department hosting student-oriented speakers; the Provost supports this and noted there is a budget available. They also discussed progress on Justice, Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion (JEDI) initiatives, aiming to establish an office or division by spring, hire a JEDI officer for the president's cabinet, and prioritize creating more affinity spaces. Dan proposed limiting residential students to taking no more than 1-2 online courses, which the Provost liked but anticipates pushback; further discussion with Associate Provost Brian Jennings is planned. Dr. Salka highlighted the lack of 400-level courses and suggested forming an Ad Hoc Committee to reclassify certain 300-level courses as 400-level without each going through governance individually, to streamline the process and reduce the University Curriculum Committee's workload. Sarah's next meeting with the Provost is on December 11th, and she is seeking someone to fill an extra seat on the UCC; she invited those interested in governance to contact her. She reminded everyone about an opportunity to earn office hours by helping make goodie bags for her event on Friday at 1:30 p.m. in the SGA room and asked them to inform Jacob if they plan to participate.

The committee recommended amending FACES' request to cover 100% of their $64 cost for Crumbl Cookies, exceeding the usual 50% cap on food costs due to the club's limited funds and the fact that this is their first event. This recommendation, passed unanimously (3-0), requires a two-thirds majority roll call vote for final approval. For the Chess Club, which is hosting an on-campus chess tournament with UMass Amherst, the committee recommended approving $28.75 to cover 50% of their food and drink costs.
