The Urban Education Program

The Urban Education Program was founded in 1968 to provide collegiate access, mentoring, and academic advising to students of color that may not of had been afforded such opportunity considering the turbulent social climate of the 1960s and 1970s.

Since, the Urban Education Program has evolved to provide holistic support services to all students that self-identify as first-generation, underrepresented, or demonstrates a financial need. The Urban Education Program embraces a notion of an academic community enriched and enhanced by diversity along various dimensions, including race, ethnicity, national origin, gender and gender identity, sexuality, disability, socioeconomic class and religion. We are especially committed to increasing the representation of those populations that have been historically excluded from participating in an institution of higher learning.

Mission Statement:

The mission of the Urban Education Program is to provide support for first-generation students that will improve individual performance and academic achievement through a college readiness and preparation Summer Bridge Program and promoting students' academic success through intrusive advising, mentorship, academic, and social support. From its inception in 1968, the Urban Education Program upholds the goals of enhancing and enriching the academic community by increasing the representation of diverse populations, championing inclusivity, empowering first-generation students, and fostering academic excellence and leadership.

Services:

The Urban Education Program provides assistance for students through individual sessions with a member of the office. Individualized support may include discussions about good academic decisions and preparation essential to degree completion. Additionally, sessions may be used to identify other resources available on campus and make referrals so students can meet their challenges. An Urban Education Program Academic Advisor will keep track of academic progress, credits, and course completion to assist students to become academically successful and realize their educational goals.

Academic services also include finding the right career path and having conversations about selecting a major that is a right fit for a student. There is an emphasis on leadership development in order to assist a student to find their career path and professional opportunities through campus activities, civic engagement, networking opportunities, internships and jobs.

If necessary, students that find themselves on an academic standing of probation, suspension, or dismissal will continue to have our assistance through the development of a plan to facilitate their return to good academic standing.

Other services include social support and integration since college comes with many challenges outside of academics. This includes mentorship, being there to listen whenever needed, and problem solving outside academic issues or concerns such as financial aid or roommate conflicts.

Services continue throughout the students' educational career at Westfield State University, and the bond continues throughout their lifetime. Each one teach one, each one reach one.

Urban Education Program Application Requirements

The application process for the Urban Education Program is unique. Applicants select the UEP checkbox under the admissions opportunity section on either the web or paper application. In addition, applicants must submit two letters of recommendation with one from a high school guidance counselor. An Urban Education Program staff member will review the applicants file which includes an assessment of academic background, leadership potential, participation in extracurricular and leadership activities and evidence of self-motivation, maturity and other special aptitudes or talents.

If an applicant is selected, they will receive an invitation to attend an Urban Education interview session. Acceptance is based on factors including academic performance, SAT/ACT scores, letters of recommendation, the interview, and attendance to New Student Orientation (NSO). Satisfying the minimum requirements does not guarantee acceptance into the Summer Bridge Program.

If the Urban Education Program accepts a prospective student after their interview the following steps need to occur:

- Return the Admission Enrollment Form
- $75 deposit for the Urban Education Program commuter and a $100 deposit for the Urban Education Program resident student
- WSU Health Forms and Residential Life Housing Forms returned by June 1st
- Return Summer Bridge Program forms

In addition, all students are REQUIRED to attend a New Student Orientation session for admission into the Urban Education Program. Once accepted and deposited, all incoming students will receive information on New Student and Parent Orientation at Westfield State.

The policies and Student Handbook can be found on <http://catalog.westfield.ma.edu/> under Academic Policies and Student Handbook on the right-hand side. Instructors may establish additional guidelines deemed appropriate for their classroom setting. Violation of rules and policies will result in actions or sanctions that may remove the participant from the Summer Bridge Program.

- Mandatory Attendance: Attendance by student participants is expected and required to all class sessions, seminars, workshops, tutorial sessions and advisor meetings that are scheduled during the Summer Bridge Program. Because attendance to class is mandatory, there are NO excused absences from classes. In some cases, a student who is late or tardy may be counted as absent and might not be allowed to enter the class, and will be directed to the UEP office to speak with the Director in Parenzo Hall 108. Students will not be allowed to return to the residence hall during class with the exception of breakfast and lunch.
- Appropriate Classroom Behavior: It is expected that all students will behave in an appropriate manner as to not cause any disruption in the educational process. Per the instructor's permission, recording devices and laptops may be utilized for note taking only. Otherwise, all devices should be off and put away. Any violation of this policy could result in confiscation of the electronic device until after class and the student being asked to leave class. If a student is asked to leave the class, they will be directed to the UEP office in Parenzo Hall 108 to speak with the Director.
- Dress Code: Students will be in contact with various faculty, staff, and administration so we require our students to dress appropriately (e.g., no low cut tops, short dresses, short shorts, short skirts, sagging pants, hats, or head wraps unless for religious purposes in the classroom).

Academic Honesty Policy

Participants in the Summer Bridge Program are expected to have high standards of integrity. As outlined in the Academic Honesty Policy, any student who violates academic honesty is subject to dismissal from the Summer Bridge Program. Academic honesty, a necessary foundation of a learning community, is expected of all students. We have a non-tolerance policy which means violations of this policy are unacceptable and are subject to academic penalties, including failure of the course. A record of the violation is submitted to the Office of Academic Affairs; repeated violations may result in suspension or dismissal from the University. Violations of academic honesty include cheating on examinations, plagiarism, and submission of papers for credit in two or more courses.

Participants must familiarize themselves with the Academic Honesty Policy of Westfield State University, as they must abide by this policy for the duration of the program.
