

ADDICTION COUNSELOR EDUCATION WESTFIELD STATE UNIVERSITY

A PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT SEQUENCE

Addiction services agencies have become an important element in our nation's health care delivery system, employing professional managers, counselors and service providers. Those who wish to pursue a career in the treatment of alcoholism/chemical dependency should be familiar with the functions of a counselor and the diverse populations served by a complex network of treatment modalities. They must possess the knowledge, skills and techniques necessary for the successful treatment of individuals and families afflicted by alcoholism and/or other drug addictions. The Westfield State University Addiction Counselor Education Program assists in the professional development of people involved in an important and growing health care service field.

THE ADMISSION PROCESS

Candidates' qualifications are reviewed by the Director of the Addiction Counselor Education Program. Completion of a high school diploma or GED, narrative statement, and personal interview are all considered when an application is reviewed.

All admission materials become the property of the Addiction Counselor Education Program and may not be returned to you or submitted to other parties for any other use.

Admission to the Addiction Counselor Education Program is determined without regard to race, color, sex, religion, or national origin.

Students may start the program in September.
